

The N2N Illuminate platform and its partnership with Boomi allow customers to access expanded integration and API options, connecting everyone to everything within a single digital ecosystem. Here's how N2N and Boomi can help you solve three of the biggest system integration challenges institutions of higher education face.

PROBLEM #1

Stakeholders expect available, on-demand access to all systems and processes regarding their interaction with the institution.

Solution: The ability to fully integrate multiple different systems, APIs, and platforms, which is what Illuminate offers. Integrating Boomi with the N2N Illuminate Platform means that N2N clients will have complete end-to-end visibility into connectors and process flows, as well as detailed performance metrics.

PROBLEM #2

The institution must be able to work with a huge number of vendors, each of which may be using different technologies.

Solution: Together, Boomi and N2N provide an extensive collection of tools to speed higher education integration projects and streamline implementations, from process libraries to prebuilt connectors.

PROBLEM #3

Lack of experience and resources to manage both legacy systems and identify relevant emerging technologies.

Solution: Working with a partner like N2N, which offers partnerships with leading tech providers like Boomi, takes the pressure off an institution's internal IT department, freeing them up to fulfill more immediate, daily needs.
